Glass & Ceramic Baskets: Identification and Value Guide Carole Bess White, L. M. White
Almost 600 photographs of both old (pre-1950s) and new (1960s-present) baskets are featured, as well as a good selection of old magazine ads and import catalogs. Cambridge, Heisey, Fenton, Duncan, Imperial, Westmoreland, plus a selection of the more modern imported glass baskets that sell so briskly now are represented. Roseville is the largest of the potteries represented in the book, and there are too many others to list. Each basket is pictured and accompanied by a brief description, market value, and country of manufacture. AUTHORBIO: Carole White is the author of a four-volume series on Made in Japan Ceramics. She also wrote Collector's Guide to Lunchboxes and Glass & Ceramic Baskets. REVIEW: Collectors will find a variety of baskets in every price range included in this book. Literally hundreds of baskets are shown in full color - glass, ceramic, old, new, large, and small, American-made and foreign-made. Description, height, and collector values are given for each item shown.

Harry Fulford:

As a college student exactly feel bored to be able to reading. If their teacher questioned them to go to the library or to make summary for some book, they are complained. Just very little students that has reading's spirit or real their hobby. They just do what the teacher want, like asked to go to the library. They go to generally there but nothing reading significantly. Any students feel that reading is not important, boring and can't see colorful photographs on there. Yeah, it is for being complicated. Book is very important for yourself. As we know that on this time, many ways to get whatever you want. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. So , this Glass & Ceramic Baskets: Identification and Value Guide can make you truly feel more interested to read.
