MAMA MOSES and MOTHER TRUTH: Life Links as Mystics and Freedom Masters Linda Cousins-Newton
In a warm, storytelling yet scholarly fashion, Linda Cousins-Newton explores the mystical and historical ties and striking similarities in the masterful lives of Mothers Harriet Ross Tubman and Sojourner Truth, showing via twelve life comparisons how they have become enduring and eternally beloved "ancestral mentors". These great slavery-era contributors' lives become deeply personalized in Mama Moses and Mother Truth, as in chapters like "Women in Love and Liberty", one sees that, like many others across the globe and across the centuries, these humble yet powerful women had personal love lives, losses, gains and periods of questioning and introspective spiritual seeking.

Ancestral storyteller, Cousins-Newton, birth mother of the Nana Tubman Honor in Ghana Project, guides readers to view Truth and Tubman as entrepreneurs, songwriters, "spiritual salespersons", and as mystics and healers, moving beyond the usual story of Tubman as an Underground Railroad conductor and liberator of the enslaved and Sojourner Truth as a women's rights advocate. The passages directly addressing these love warriors as well as those who impacted their lives add yet another unique flavor to a tasty herstorycal and literary stew served for the first time to those who enjoy sampling the personal and motivational side dish of inspiring lives.
